APWA Features Leadership and Management in PWX@Home in December

Kansas City, MO – December 01, 2020 – As a part of PWX@Home, the American Public Works Association (APWA) is highlighting Leadership and Management throughout the month of December. Each month through July 2021, APWA is highlighting a different area of public works and providing education and professional networking opportunities for all public works professionals.

Officially launched in August 2020, APWA has already broken PWX@Home’s registration record for the Small Cities/Rural Communities Perspective on Series with 144 registrants for December’s program. Additionally, nearly 750 public works professionals attended the first day of APWA’s Winter Maintenance Operator Certificate program as a part of PWX@Home in the month of November.

Specifically, December’s PWX@Home features include:

Live Virtual Events

- Dec. 02 – Small Cities/Rural Communities Perspective on Leadership and Management
  - This panel will discuss what it takes to lead and manage staff, projects, and expectations in a small city or rural community.
