

APWA North American Snow Conference
Historical Data – Cities and Dates

The first Snow Conference in 1961 was initiated because of an extremely bad snowstorm that nearly closed down New York City. It was an informal meeting with a few speakers from that regional area, including Baltimore and Washington, DC. General Fred Clarke from Washington, DC, got involved and recommended a research project to APWA on the study of urban snow removal problems. The 2nd and 3rd annual conferences were called the “Northeastern Conference on Urban Snow Removal.” The title “Snow Conference” was inaugurated at the 4th annual conference in 1964. It became the “North American Snow Conference” the next year in 1965.
