

APWA 2022 National Public Works Week Social Media Toolkit

APWA is proud to announce the 2022 National Public Works Week theme as “Ready & Resilient.” Within every public works professional lies a superhero, which is dramatically represented in this year's poster and artwork. Public works professionals are always READY to serve their communities and RESILIENT as ever in their abilities to pick themselves up off the ground after encountering challenges.

This National Public Works Week (May 15 – 21), we want to give you the tools to make social media just a bit easier. In this toolkit you'll find ideas, posts, and pictures to enhance your agencies social media efforts. Make sure to use #NPWW on all your National Public Works Week social media posts. By doing so, you'll join in on all the NPWW discussions being held across all of the major social media platforms, and it will make your posts easier for others to find. Plus, your post will be included in the APWA Social Media Gallery on the official NPWW website! If you're looking to add a little something extra to your post, consider using #ReadyAndResilient to tie in with this year's theme!

Within this toolkit you'll find open ended ideas to get you started, suggested posts you can use on social media, information on #NPWW Spirit Week, and downloadable images that you can use. A little prep work goes a long way, so schedule some posts out ahead of time and enjoy NPWW!

Ideas to Get You Started

Share a photo or video showing your department being #ReadyAndResilient and encourage your friends and colleagues across the nation to do the same!

Update your profile pic or Zoom background with a #ReadyAndResilient graphic.

Recognize your colleagues who are doing incredible things in the field by shouting them out!

Dig through the archives! We want to see your unique public works historical pictures.

What made you go into public works?

Gather stories from within your department. Public workers have some great stories, this is a great time to tell them!

#NPWW Spirit Week

Each day of National Public Works Week, APWA will be hosting a Sprit Day on social media. Below, you'll find information for each day as well as sample posts you can use on social media to get involved. Remember, feel free to adjust these as you need to fit your agency or company's voice!

Monday (Ready and Resilient)

How is your department celebrating National Public Works Week? Post a picture and show how you're always #ReadyAndResilient. Monday is great for department photos or for showcasing the breadth of your public works department. You're the superheroes this week!

It's a great time for a twitter thread talking about each department in your agency, or to show off your weekly staff meeting.

"It's a bird! It's a plane! It's... a high-vis vest? Our department is celebrating being #ReadyAndResilient during National Public Works Week! #NPWW"

Tuesday (Made Ya Look)

If Monday kicked us off, Tuesday's our time to surprise the public. Talk about a surprising thing your public works department does, or place something where it shouldn't be. The point is to be attention grabbing and fun!

- Decorate a garbage truck.
- Bust out the old snowplow and go for a Tuesday afternoon drive!
- Talk about an unusual service your public works department provides to the community.
- Showcase your employees' unusual skills.

"Public works is everywhere, but did you expect to see us here? #NPWW [Insert your own picture here]"

Wednesday (Whatcha Wearing?)

Wednesday is all about what you wear when you do your job. Show off your waders, safety vest, or hard hat. It's a great time to highlight the different uniforms in your department. What's the story behind them? Tell us about it!

"We don't wear a suit and tie every day, but our uniforms are just as slick! #NPWW [Insert your own picture]"

Thursday (Throwback Thursday)

Thursday's Spirit Day is a classic—Throwback Thursday! Public works departments have a long history, so dive in and find something neat to share. Remember to use #NPWW and #TBT for today! A few suggestions to get you started:

- An older public works building. Where was your department first located?
- How much has your department grown over the years? This is a great time to show off a staff picture from years past.
- How did your department deal with a large weather event? Throwback to your department clearing the roads, preparing for floods, etc.

“Remember how our community recovered after [Insert natural disaster/emergency situation]? We sure do! #NPWW [Insert picture public works efforts surrounding natural disaster/emergency situation]”

Friday (Future Friday)

Thursday was all about looking back, on Friday we look forward to the future. For Future Friday we want to focus on what's coming next for your agency. Tell us what's coming up or what you envision for the future of your agency. Don't forget the #NPWW and #FutureFriday hashtags.

Some exciting suggestions to get you started:

- Is there a new public transportation system project on the horizon? Or maybe one you're already currently working on?
- Is your department moving to a new facility?
- This is your time to get creative, talk about flying cars, new developments within the city, anything!

“#NPWW may be coming to an end, but public works never sleeps! We're looking forward to breaking ground on [EXAMPLE PROJECT] soon. What public works project are you looking forward to?”

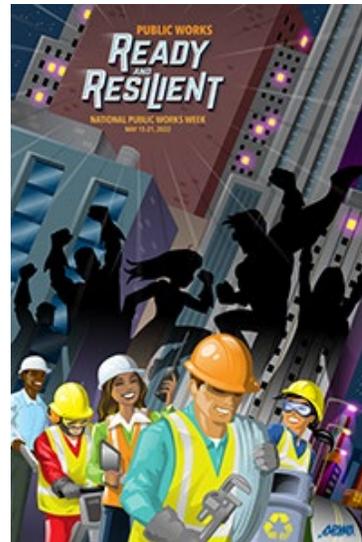

“We're building [PUBLIC TRANSPOR SYSTEM] on the off chance that flying cars don't get invented for another 50 years.”

Image Assets for Social Media

Square images are good for Instagram and Facebook, while rectangular images work on Twitter, LinkedIn, and Facebook. All these and more are available on our website.
